Terrific Battle Raging in Cassino New Japanese Column Drives 60 Miles inside India

Second Invasion
Force Advances
Burma Sector

Allies Minimize
Threat to Imphal

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH

NEW DELHI, INDIA, March 23—A new Japanese army, dramatically appearing out of the jungles, driven sixty miles into India, it is announced today, in the second invasion disclosed within forty hours.

The new force, hitherto unheralded, has pushed northward from up the Manipur river valley within thirty miles of the city of Imphal, it was disclosed.

The earlier Japanese invasion was a similar distance from on the east yesterday after crossing the upper Chindwin river

at Thaungdut.

New Force Located

The new Japanese force that materialized in the shifting Burma-India border fighting was located by Allied headquarters report as being on the west shores of the Logtak, thirty miles south of Imphal.

Headquarters said the column had pushed north up the narrow river from the Tiddim region, 100 miles south and forty miles inside

Burma border.

All previous reports had this Japanese grouping safely confined within Burma.

Yesterday's headquarters statement said Allied troops had been dispatched to "deal with an outflanking Japanese unit

north of Tiddim."

No Sign of Pincers

There was no suggestion that the new force had dashed eighty miles north to constitute the southern arm of the pincer movement threatening

Imphal from the hills onto the central plain.

Allied reports were vague concerning the progress of the Japanese army which were well into India

crossing the upper Chindwin

at Thaungdut.

Warns Rumania

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—In a desperate demonstration of Nazi power, Adolf Hitler, holding Hungary under his thumb today, launched a campaign of bullying the other Southeastern European nations into a stand-or-perish position with Germany against the on-rushing Red army.

Germany's present moves apparently were designed to stem the rising tide of peace sentiment in that section of war-weary Europe and prevent—temporarily at least—a repetition of the disintegration which led to Germany's downfall in 1918.

Even as Hitler rode hard over Hungary through a new Quisling premier, there were indications that all Nazi satellites were being given the choice of providing complete military co-operation under Nazi direction, or of being occupied by Nazi troops.

Delay Only for Hitler

Some Londoners maintained the Hitler pressure could only delay and would not prevent the ultimate collapse in the Balkans.

It was elsewhere indicated that Hitler was preparing to "kidnap" Rumania to shore up his tottering Balkan edifice. There were widespread rumors that Premier Ion Antonescu had been summoned to Hitler's presence as Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, had gone before him.

The British radio immediately beamed broadcasts to Rumania. "Of two evils, you must choose the lesser," the British broadcast warned.

"If you oppose Germany, Germany will wreak vengeance on you, but if you oppose the Allies, an even graver fate is in store."

Army Refuses Plea of AFL and CIO or Distribution of News to Vets

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—The AFL and CIO were turned down today on a joint bid for army posts in combatting what labor spokesman term the "misinformation" reaching troops in the field but labor troubles here at home. A statement and in explanation from high officials, the War department took the position that the publications and the army service tell the news "honestly and objectively" and that it would be a mistake for the department to have any part in distributing material slanted in any

The War department, a formal statement said, "cannot take upon itself to police all American publications or withhold from soldiers publications which they want to do."

De Caux, CIO news editor and one of those who took the matter up with the War department originally, said he wanted to study the department statement further. There was no other comment from CIO or AFL spokesmen.

A CIO-AFL delegation presented the labor organizations' views to Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson on March 7. They told him they believed anti-labor propaganda was being fed to servicemen overseas from a variety of sources and asked co-operation in combating it.

In addition to De Caux, the CIO was represented by R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers; Milton Murray, American Newspaper Guild; Samuel Wolchak, Retail and Department Store Workers, and Irving Abramson. The AFL spokesmen were George Meany, secretary-treasurer, and Philip Pearl, publicity representative.

The parents, First Lieutenant and Mrs. Bryce L. Taylor, Jr., eight-month old son of a returned army flyer, survived a fall from the eighth floor of a Miami Beach hotel and is "resting well" in the hospital, the Army air forces said today in an official announcement.

The accident occurred Monday and the announcement was withheld "to prevent undue alarm among relatives."

X-ray photographs showed the baby had a broken bone in the right leg and a slight neck injury.

Kirke L. Simpson Says:

Japanese Invasion of India Doomed To Fail in Spite of Brief Advance

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press War Analyst

Plotted on any map of the Indian-Burma border large enough to show road, rail and river communications which dominate battle logistics, the Japanese invasion of Assam from the upper Chindwin region in Burma makes little sense.

It seems no more than a Tokio-born forlorn hope of inciting a wholesale revolt in India—or a bit of Nipponese home-front propaganda window dressing to afford Premier Tojo some sort of silver lining for the otherwise cloudy war report he made to the Diet and the Japanese people.

That makes Tojo's reference to failure. Even while admitting the multiple-front Japanese surge across the Chindwin river and the Assam border to within thirty miles of the Imphal roadhead town from the south and east significant. He did not report it has a Japanese enterprise, but as an attack by the "Indian national army" with the "co-operation of (Japanese) imperial forces." If it is not of the grandiose design Tojo assigned to it, obviously it will be ascribed by Tokyo to Indian not Japanese collapse.

Short of a wholesale uprising throughout India to support a Japanese puppet regime, the invasion of India certainly is doomed to such conditions.

If it is not merely a Japanese gesture for propaganda purposes, the invasion of India could have only one other meaning. It might represent growing fear in Tokyo that the Allied successes in clearing Northern Burma are bringing dangerously near the hour when the Ledo road from India to China will begin pouring supplies into China to make it the gravest threat to Nipponese China sea traffic and to Japan itself.

Tokyo is now within bomber range from the east. Completion of the Ledo road will mean cross-fire bombing of Japan and there is not much the Japanese invasion of India from Burma can do to prevent that or even to delay it.

Bomber Forces Give Doughboys Greatest Credit

By KENNETH L. DIXON

UNITED STATES AIR BASE IN SARDINIA, March 16 (Delayed) (AP)—There was nothing unusual about the conversation. I've heard it a hundred times or more whenever airmen get to talking about the front line infantrymen.

It started when the sandy-haired Maurader pilot from California mentioned the day's mission, a bombing job just ahead of the Fifth army front, and added:

Have Tough Job

"I hope we did those doughboys some good. God knows they need it. They've got the toughest job of the war."

It was the same thing a thousand airmen have said before. The front line infantryman has no stauncher friends, no stronger sympathizers, than the air crews who support his struggling advance.

But this guy, who was quietly giving others credit for having the "toughest job of the war," was a veteran of approximately fifty combat missions. He had seen scores of his buddies shot down. He himself had been shot down once. He had carried dead and wounded crewmen out of his fisk shredded ship.

But he said the doughboy has the toughest job.

"Boy, that's right, we've got it soft compared to them," said the curly headed co-pilot from Illinois.

There was nothing new about that sentence, either.

Job Not Really Soft

But the curly head's thirty-odd combat missions hadn't been exactly soft. Several times he had helped bandage seriously wounded crewmen and then helped fight the crippled ship back home. Once the plane had been shot down. He barely bailed out in time and then had to pick up the remains of his pilot and arrange for burial.

And always riding the right hand seat with comparatively little to do, he had time to mentally sweat out every bitterly contested bomb run, his imagination admittedly running wild. And when ships are going down all around you it doesn't take much imagination to make reason begin to totter.

But he said he had it soft compared to the doughboys.

"Yeah, when you figure on those guys' living conditions and then look at ours we don't even know there's a war going on."

Nothing unusual in that statement either, coming from an airmen. Plenty of others had said it, but the bombardier who made it saw two aircraft blow up in the air, one of them just recently. None of the crews of either escaped. He carries bad marks on both legs as mementos of when he painfully dragged himself from a blazing plane.

That's all there was to it. Since they all agreed completely on the subject, the conversation turned to other subjects.

A Clarification That Fails To Clarify

SECRETARY HULL'S EFFORT to outline and clarify the foreign policy of the Roosevelt administration appears only to have added mud to water already muddy. His statement is pretty much a repetition of generalizations that have gone before; and nothing appears to have been offered to set at rest the doubts lately obtaining regarding the competence of those charged with the international conduct of the nation. Those doubts have been coupled with apprehension over the passive course pursued in late months. This nation has been sitting motionless and voiceless in a sort of universal appeasement attitude, while other nations are going ahead boldly with respect to foreign moves and commitments.

Russia has been the chief disturber in this respect, going ahead on its own without regard to the wishes of its allies and in direct violation of its Moscow pledges. Stalin went ahead and recognized the Badoglio government of Italy, while this nation has refused to take such a step; Russia rejected our offer to mediate the Russian-Polish border question but we received only the admonishment that its border affairs concerned itself and no others; it divided its territory into sixteen governments without consulting its allies as to the diplomatic consequences; its press violently attacked Wendell Willkie for some of his public utterances; the Russian press also made a fiery and unjustified attack against the Vatican and also attacked American labor leaders it regarded as too conservative. As these steps were taken, the United States sat idly by and took it all for granted when, to the nation of many, it should have asserted its partnership rights and opinions in the premises.

About the only interpolation lately made in recent months by this nation respecting the international situation was the blundering assertion by Mr. Roosevelt about the division of the Italian fleet, which turned out to be a dupe and had to be straightened out by Mr. Churchill. The trouble with our foreign policy is that it is too tumultuous and too wishful and too unrealistic to the neglect of the practicalities. "A nation, like a man, is certain to stumble if it keeps one eye on the stars while the other cannot see beyond its national nose," the New York Herald Tribune recently observed, adding that "the United States may have a good working vision of international realities when it puts its telescope aside but only, if, at the same time, it acquires a suitable pair of spectacles." That, if anything, appears to be the natural reaction over Mr. Hull's brave but futile attempt to clarify the administration's nebulous and impotent foreign policy.

According to statistics, eighty-nine per cent of the farmers in this country have to stumble but relatively few crops grow successfully when planted in such devices.

Announcement that 30,227,863 motor vehicles are in use in the United States should be revised to eliminate those that ran out of tires today.

A West Virginia Judicial Candidate

REPUBLICAN READERS of this newspaper in the northern and eastern counties of West Virginia, the number of whom is increasing, by the way, may well give consideration to the announcement by ex-Judge Haymond Maxwell, of Harrison county, that he is a candidate for the nomination for judge of the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals. That is because here is a man ideally fitted for that position by reason of a splendid judicial temperament and long experience on the bench, also by inheritance as his father was a distinguished member of the supreme bench.

Born and reared in Harrison county, a member of an old and distinguished West Virginia family, Haymond Maxwell entered the private practice of the law in 1901 and practiced until 1909 when he was appointed judge of the newly-constituted criminal court, where he served until he was elected judge of the circuit, comprising Harrison and Lewis counties, serving so ably that he was re-elected. When his term expired in 1926, he re-entered private practice, but the people of the state recognized the exceptional ability demonstrated by him on the bench and in 1928 he was appointed to the supreme court and was later elected to a regular twelve-year term, in which he added measurably to the judicial laurels already won. Since 1941, he has been engaged in private practice at Clarksburg. The only reason he is not on the supreme bench now is that the state went hell-bang Democratic.

Friday Morning, March 24, 1944

To the Republican voters of that state, this newspaper can say, on the basis of knowledge well grounded, that Judge Maxwell's name on the Republican ticket this fall as the nominee for the supreme court would add strength to the party ticket in every section of West Virginia. If nominated, as he will most likely be, he would undoubtedly be elected.

Mr. Tait's Advice Is Substantiated

THE WISDOM AND FAIRNESS of the advice given three weeks ago by Galen L. Tait, Republican state chairman, regarding presidential preferences on the party primary ballot have been substantiated by the fact that the name of Wendell L. Willkie has been filed, having been sent in within the last quarter-hour preceding the dead-line set by law.

The reason given by Mr. Tait that the state delegates to the national convention go "uninstructed" is obvious. Mr. Willkie is not the only presidential possibility, and, according to polls lately published, he is not the top favorite. Governor Dewey is not an avowed candidate, yet there is rising sentiment for him all over the country; also there are other good candidates available who will present some strength in the convention.

Consequently, as there will be but one name on the ballot for presidential preference, Willkie will have somewhat of an advantage at the primary polls among those who are thoughtless of the necessity for free and unrestricted selection of the very best candidate for president at the convention for, if he obtains the preference of the state delegation to the convention is automatically pledged to him as long as his name is before the convention.

In the interest of fairness, party success and party harmony, therefore, it will behoove Republican voters to vote in the primary election May 1 for an uninstructed delegation, as Mr. Tait has suggested, for the simple reason that this is the only sensible alternative to take in a situation which precludes a full expression of preference, which could obtain only if all the presidential possibilities should be filed.

Basis for a Realty Boom

A population rise might boom city real estate. However, the nation's rate of growth, and particularly urban population, has been falling. The trend to the suburbs should increase after the war. Improved transit facilities may result in suburban living out-pacing residential growth in the cities.

Well-managed cities with efficient traffic controls, handy subways and honest assessments may see a rising demand for city homes. New domestic conveniences and an increase in domestic employees may help cities regain their popularity. City real estate has been so long depressed there may be a natural swing in the other direction; but I now see no convincing signs thereof.

new frontiers today that will make the most spectacular of the past pale to insignificance. There are new frontiers in aviation, new frontiers in medicine, new frontiers in chemistry, new frontiers in the countless new processes and techniques and substances and combinations developed under the spur of war necessity.

There are even new frontiers in the old sense of land frontiers and the limitless possibilities of plant life expansion. The impression generally prevails that this country is about built up; that, in any event, there is no place left for the land pioneer. A survey recently completed by Esquire revealed some startling information on this score. Esquire discovered that in twenty-five of the forty-eight states, plus Alaska, there still are homestead sites available for those with the pioneer urge. Moreover, there is land aplenty for these adventurous ones. Within the United States there remain, according to the Esquire investigation, more than 50,000,000 acres available for homesteading, while Alaska offers 323,000,000 acres more.

Babson Sees No Land Boom Right After the War

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Fla., March 24.—During World War I, prices of city real estate remained almost stationary, but between 1910-1920 the value of farm lands doubled. After the last war, we had from 1920-1926 a great industrial boom and city land prices greatly increased.

Farm workers migrated to city industrial jobs at that time and farm prices dropped. This resulted in a tremendous slump in the value of farm land and lower crop prices.

During World War II, prices of city rents have increased about eight per cent; but with prices of agricultural products nearly ninety per cent above prewar levels, we again have greatly inflated farm land values. Will history repeat, or reverse, the relative position of farm and urban property?

City Booms and Current Trends

Booms are usually preceded by a rise in the net income of real properties and a subsequent rise in the sales prices of existing buildings. This stimulates new building and is followed by a demand for vacant land on which to build new properties. There results an over-supply of homes, apartments, stores, hotels and offices. Rents fall and new construction no longer becomes profitable. The demand for land drops and sales prices fall. This is the real estate cycle.

In ninety per cent of 280 cities, real estate prices have risen about twelve per cent in the past two years. In Chicago, it is reported that apartment buildings increased in sales prices about $200 a room from 1936 to the middle of 1943. There has since been a further rise of ten per cent—fifteen per cent. Notwithstanding rent control, New York has seen a rising price for apartment buildings. In Boston, there is a great demand for these properties at prices well above conservative values. In Miami, for similar structures, prices have increased twenty-five per cent—thirty-five per cent in the last three years.

What about Vacant City Land? ...

There has been very little price increase in vacant city land during World War II. Postwar demand for suburban home sites has increased slightly the price of land near some large cities. The fear of inflation has helped the sale of small farms but not yet the sale of city property. In most cities, the assessed value of land has not been sufficiently deflated from the peak prices of the 20's to warrant interest.

It takes a generation to recover from a collapse in city real estate such as occurred in New York from 1929-1932. Improved real estate—that is land with buildings—still sells at prices below the reproduction cost, less depreciation. Hence, no income is left for the land. As a result, there is no pressing demand for new city space which in turn would absorb land values and lead to a land boom.

Another thing: Although inflation should sometime help the price of all real estate, yet during the next few years inflation will be only gradual as it has been during the past. It will take a violent inflation scare to boost real estate prices and such may not come until 1950-1955.

Hull's Statement Is Viewed As Implying Indefinite Overlordship by the Big Four

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 23.—While, on their face, the seventeen principles of "the foreign policy of the United States" just issued by Secretary Hull is a reiteration of what has been said before in a general way in speeches and public announcements, the new language and method of presentation contains a significant emphasis on the transition period to follow the ending of hostilities.

As far as the Atlantic Charter is concerned, each nation, in order to enjoy the charter's benefits, must "demonstrate its capacity for stable and progressive government, fulfill scrupulously its established duties to other nations, settle its international differences and disputes by non-peaceful methods and make full contribution to the maintenance of enduring peace."

Varied Meanings

If it be assumed that "education" is necessary, especially of the younger generations in the Axis countries it will be a long, long time before huge armaments can be reduced on the Allied side and big standing armies and immense naval and air forces demoralized.

As far as the Atlantic Charter is concerned, each nation, in order to enjoy the charter's benefits, must "demonstrate its capacity for stable and progressive government, fulfill scrupulously its established duties to other nations, settle its international differences and disputes by non-peaceful methods and make full contribution to the maintenance of enduring peace."

Skilful Statement

President Roosevelt has never said specifically in public to what extent he agreed with the Churchill approach, and it has been left to the realm of speculation whether the four major powers intended indefinitely to run the affairs of the world while putting a number of other nations on probation, so to speak, for many years to come.

In contrast to this plan, there has been the insistence of liberals in many countries that the new world organization include all sovereign nations not now at war with us and that the international agency to preserve peace should not be kept indefinitely in the background as a pious hope but started already in some quarters can best be administered by four super-men who, presumably, are to live forever or at least stay in public office indefinitely. This is hardly proof or demonstration of the capacity of free peoples to establish a system of enduring peace. Rather it demonstrates much more the premise that might makes right even among the benevolently minded governments of the modern world.

As the provisions of the four-nation declaration are carried into effect, the Hull statement says, "there will no longer be need for spheres of

Circuit Rider—World War II Model

Chaplain Smith of U. S. Army, Brings Religious Solace to Yanks in Iran Via Aged Caboose

By MALVINA STEPHENSON
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Col.—This global war has turned up a strange new kind of circuit rider. His popular name throughout the Middle East is "Railroad Smitty," and he operates in a rusty-red caboose called "Faith."

Chaplain Stanley Eugene Smith, a captain in the United States Army, and his flock of servicemen scattered along a several hundred-mile road line in Iran. To solve his transportation problem, the commanding officer assigned him one of antiquated cabooses.

The Shah of Persia—with his private car—has nothing on me," Chaplain wrote his wife. Of course there's quite a contrast between his majesty's palace on wheels and the chaplain's caboose, but the good-natured Smith insists his is a "private car."

Recently, Chaplain Smith could make comparisons, after a rare respite in the royal precincts. This time he described it all in a letter to his wife:

"I just inspected the shah's private car. It is being used by the upholstered chairs, nice beds. Then shall for a trip—first time it has been out of the shed for months. One of our men told me and said if I got there while it was open, he would get me in."

Beautifully Furnished

"I had been through the queen's private car before. But, is this one something! Beautiful marble bath tub, mother-of-pearl toilet fixtures,

And, it was in this big "Papa Bear" chair which Chaplain Smith was tempted to take a seat.

"The Persian in charge would not let me sit long, for he insisted was only for the shah," Smith continued. "Well, I sat where he usually does anyway. But, he doesn't have anything on me for I have a special train run on this road for me, too."

The "Faith" caboose, however, is stripped down to the bare essentials of military necessity. There's nothing of the Arabian Nights splendor in the simple bunks flanking each side of the GI quarters. Also fitted in this small suit are clothing compartments, a washroom, sink, stove, and water tank.

Under the bunks Smith keeps newspapers and magazines to distribute among the boys. He also has installed the standard equipment: a portable organ, hymn books, and other accessories. At each stop, he arranges his material, displays the chaplain's "White Cross" flag, and is ready for business.

When word gets out that Chaplain Smith has arrived, the boys flock around as soon as they are free from duty. Or, Chaplain Smith may call on a group, toss a towel over each arm, and then chuckle, "Who wants to cry on my shoulder?"

Chaplain Smith reported this ride to headquarters here. "In the first two weeks of our work with the car, we had more than 100 visitors, some just to say 'hello' and others wishing to consult about some problems. The chaplain and his clerk live in the car and thus it is not necessary for the small camps to make extra provisions for us."

However, take it from Chaplain Smith, "Faith" caboose is no Pullman when it comes to riding comfort. Not that he's complaining, just being realistic. And, after spending four out of five nights on the road, Smith is ready for the quiet luxury of a barracks bunk.

Other Problems, Too
The mobile quarters also presents other problems. For instance, take this opening paragraph of another letter of his:

"Well, that worry I mentioned is all over—after about an hour's search, I finally found my notes on the lecture. The jolting of the car misplaces things so badly that every once in a while, something gets blown out the window, but I was fortunate this time."

The railroad, incidentally, is considered quite an engineering feat, crawling over the craggy, mountainous heights. It originally was built by the Shah of Persia to provide a vital transportation link, and now it is doing double duty for the Allies.

With his usual zest for life, Chaplain Smith seems to get a kick out of surrounding events, even though he misses his home and family so much. Smith was in Teheran at the time of the recent historic conference, and stood just a few feet from President Roosevelt's jeep when the chief executive addressed an army unit.

Smith apparently wrote the following in all seriousness to his wife:

American Home Group Will Give Tea May 18

Miss Christine Ruehl Will Plan Conference
Speaks at Meeting on "Building for Health"

The American Home Group of the Woman's Civic club will sponsor a tea May 18 honoring the new members of the club, and will give the time at the April meeting for a general meeting. Mrs. Harry Deal, chairman of the group, announced at the final meeting of the group for the year, held yesterday afternoon at the Potomac Edison home service room.

Miss Christine Ruehl was the guest speaker and discussed "Building for Health." She brought out the variety of foods used in planning three meals a day. Using the government seven basic food chart, she explained building the body was similar to building a house, and the blue print for the former, consisting of the seven basic foods, was as important as the architect's blue print.

She pointed out that the vitamins and minerals for the diet are found in a variety of greens which may be used in salads. The speaker also discussed the use of grains, such as oatmeal as extenders for meat, and made a meat loaf using oatmeal.

Stressing the use of enriched flour as more and more housewives are making their own bread, Miss Ruehl gave a demonstration by making cinnamon rolls.

Ickes Announces New Regulations For Coal, Coke

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—Interior Secretary Ickes, solid fuels administrator, today announced new regulations for distribution of anthracite and coke to household users during the 1944-45 coal year which begins April 1.

The new program, the announcement said, will co-ordinate for the first time retail distribution of Pennsylvania anthracite, wherever used in the country, and coke used in twelve Eastern states and the District of Columbia.

The major provisions of the plan, effective at 12:01 A. M., E.W.T., April 1, are:

Major Provisions

1. Domestic consumers of the two fuels may receive in the entire "coal year" no more than seven-eighths of their annual requirements of each or both of the two fuels for space heating, domestic hot water heating and domestic cooking. The amount they have on hand April 1 is deducted from the tonnage they may receive.

2. "Consumer declarations," reporting their annual requirements, the amount and kind of coal on hand April 1, the number of rooms to be heated and the type of heating equipment used must be filed by consumers of the two fuels with dealers from whom they order fuel in the "coal year." Consumers who buy less than a ton at a time exclusively in bags are not required to file a declaration.

3. Half of the total annual requirements for each or both of the fuels may be delivered between April and October 1, with the amount on hand April 1 being deducted from the amount delivered in the period.

4. Any other solid fuels, used in conjunction with or as a substitute for Pennsylvania anthracite and "Eastern" coke, may be delivered to consumers of these two fuels in tonnages sufficient to provide them with their full annual requirements of solid fuels.

5. A procedure is set up under which domestic consumers, who are entitled to Pennsylvania anthracite or "Eastern" coke and who are unable to get a supply, may secure assistance in obtaining emergency deliveries of solid fuels in critical periods. Retailers are required to give a preference in deliveries to consumers with less than five days' supply of usable solid fuels on hand.

6. Dealers are required to serve, as far as their supplies permit, "orphan customers"—those without an established source of supply—on the same basis that they serve their established consumers.

This plan will supplant present distribution programs for anthracite and coke. Its announcement follows by two days the War Production Board's decision against coupon rationing of coal. Ickes said a related program, regulating distribution of anthracite from producers and wholesalers to retail dealers, is now being prepared.

The coke covered by the program is that sold at retail for domestic use in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, the District of Columbia, and that part of Pennsylvania east of a north-south line extending through Lock Haven and Gettysburg.

First Aid to the Ladies' Aid

TAPIOCA CREAM: Thrifty and delicious dessert.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS American customs. It's also an excellent way to raise money for good causes. The government's campaign up a good institution like the fits beautifully into the planning supper just because of a church supper that won't cost much money or points and together and cooperative effort won't be too much hard work for one of the best of our faithful committee involved.

First, of course, it's best, and it's customary, to serve such supper in blue-plate style. Though this means that the women who are serving must work fast so that hot food won't cool off, it does save bother in the end. So you've only to decide what no-point, low-point foods will provide a good, filling meal and look handsome on a plate—and you're set. Two courses are all that ever should be attempted for this sort of party. Let's talk about the first course first.

One thing you can do, of course, is eliminate meat from your planning entirely. Baked macaroni with cheese is easy to prepare and makes a fine, hearty base for a meatless meal—if you can get the cheese. Otherwise, why not have your main dish spaghetti with tomato sauce, made from donations of home-canned tomatoes which you can certainly extract from interested church members?

Potatoes are another possible hearty base for this meal. If you can still obtain link sausage, split open your potatoes when half baked, place sausage or two in each and finish baking.

If you can afford some meat, don't forget that soy grits make a wonderful stretcher for a meat loaf. And then there's always the possibility of fish. Shrimp is delicious in many types of sauce. It can be fixed ahead of time and not harmed by standing over boiling water. If your part of the world doesn't afford much fresh fish, perhaps enough of the women can spare points to buy canned ones. The addition of sherry flavoring to creamed shrimp gives a delightful flavor and a truly gourmet touch.

When it comes to vegetables, be sure to choose ones which lend color variety, which can be prepared and served easily and which look neat as well as beautiful. Always try to choose one green vegetable. Peas, string beans or broccoli are good choices, though the broccoli is difficult to cook in quantity so that it doesn't fall apart and thus spoil the appearance of the plate. Carrots add color, are inexpensive and popular. If you decide upon beets, don't forget that they are pretty strongly flavored and overpower the taste of many other vegetables. Two vegetables should be enough to accompany the main dish.

The plates upon which these foods are served should be hot. For that reason never serve a salad with your church suppers unless your group is willing to go to the trouble of washing another whole set of dishes. Salad and a hot plate ruin each other.

The bread to go with a church supper almost has to be one which requires no butter—or even margarine—nowadays. So I'd suggest muffins with raisins or something similar in them.

Illustrated is a wonderful no-fixation-point dessert for your church suppers. Tapioca, which has been missing almost entirely from our tables, is in quite plentiful supply tapioca gradually into egg white. Cool. Mixture thickens as it cools. When slightly cool, stir in vanilla. Chill and serve garnished with strawberries or other fruit. Serves seven to nine.

New Lend-Lease Act May Reduce FDR's Control

WASHINGTON, March 23 (P)—Backed by the Foreign Affairs committee, a move started in the House today to give Congress watchdog power over the president in final settlement of Lend-Lease contracts.

This authority was written into the bill extending President Roosevelt's Lend-Lease program for another year beyond June 30. The revised bill was ordered reported for action by the entire House. The committee conceded that it may be the fuse for a pointed argument and a vote probably will not be sought until after the Easter vacation.

The amendment is phrased this way:

Cuts Roosevelt's Power
That extension of Lend Lease is not to be construed to give the president any authority to "assume" obligations on the part of the United States without established constitutional procedure, in other words congressional review.

Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY), who sponsored the change, explained in a statement that it assures "a proper and workable relationship between the Congress and the White House in any final settlement of a Lend-Lease contract."

"If any obligation on the part of the United States is incurred," he said, "with respect to postwar policies in the final Lend-Lease settlements, it can only be done in accordance with our established constitutional procedure and with the appropriate action by the Congress which is required by such procedure."

That appropriate action could be reviewed by the Senate, which passes on all treaties, or by either House if a two-thirds majority decided it wanted to enter the picture.

Meantime, Rep. Philbin (D-Mass) suggested in the House that the United States withhold further Lend-Lease aid "to nations that are engaged in invading the territorial integrity and violating the political independence of the small weak European nations of Europe."

Without naming Soviet Russia specifically, he referred to "Communist riots and demonstrations, promoted by radicals" which he said were occurring in smaller European nations within the widening Soviet sphere.

"These nations are being, or, we have every good reason to believe, will be, communized and their populations rendered subject to Marxist dictatorship of the proletariat," he told the House.

The United States, he said, should not allow Lend-Lease supplies to be used to "enslave free nations."

German Leaders Plan To Prevent Postwar Uptising

NEW YORK, March 23 (P)—Nazi leaders, realizing the war is lost and that their own people will turn against them, have converted numerous German residences into camouflaged fortresses from which to suppress uprisings.

This is part of a revealing picture brought out of Germany by Oscar Jacobi, Swedish newspaperman who recently left Berlin. He writes his report in the current issue of Colliers.

Jacobi predicts that the day is approaching when the Nazis will have to confess inability to handle the home situation.

Critical Days Ahead

"That will be the signal for the Nazis to play their last card — strong to depict the calamity that liquidation of all persons who would be large parts of the German benefit from having survived the man population if the Nazis get time third Reich," who are suspected of to carry out their spite vengeance—intention to collaborate in building a Hitlerian version of the Wagnerian up a fourth Reich, or of turning twilight of the Gods. The Nazis renegade to save their own skins," have sworn to go down in terror and frightfulness — and they will."

"Guided by black lists already established, the Gestapo and SS will then stage a night of St. Bartholomew's of their own."

Jacobi says he has seen in Berlin alone, several hundred of the converted residences.

"I also reflect the opinion of enlightened quarters in Germany," he goes on, "when I predict that anarchy and everybody's war against everybody else will follow close on the overthrow of the Nazis unless the army takes an immediate stand to restore order.

Predicts Calamity

State Department Of Education Will Hold Tests Here

High School Equivalence Examinations Listed for April 27-28

Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, of the Maryland State Department of Education, yesterday announced that the next series of equivalence examinations leading to the certificate of high school equivalence, will be held on Thursday and Friday, April 27 and 28, in the Allegany County Board of Education building, 108 Washington street.

These examinations are offered to afford opportunity for adults who left school before high school graduation to obtain a certificate of high school equivalence, permitting them to pursue higher studies, to qualify for CPA examinations, and in other ways to be eligible for work which requires high school graduation or the equivalent.

Examinations are administered in Baltimore and in the county seat of any county where there are applicants. Examinations are available in all the standard high school subjects.

In order to be a candidate for the April examinations, it is necessary that an application blank be submitted to the Maryland State Department of Education, 1111 Lexington building, Baltimore-1, by April 1. Candidates must be nineteen years of age and must have been residents of the State of Maryland for at least one year. Special provisions are made for members of the armed services. Further information may be obtained from the state office in Baltimore.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county schools, said that examinations are held in April and October of each year and are held in the local board of education building at 10 a.m.

Basketball Teams Honored at Banquet

The Ursuline Academy team, captained by Jeanne Lippold, and the junior class team, captained by Sarah Troxell were awarded the Auxiliary trophies by the Rev. Father Irenaeus, O.F.M. Cap., at the banquet last evening at the Algonquin hotel. The former team won the tournament with the outside team and the latter in the intra-mural tournament.

Besides members of all the teams guests included the Rev. Father Frederick, O.F.M.; the Rev. Father Fabian, O.F.M. Cap.; and the Rev. Father Luke, O.F.M. Cap.; and the auxiliary officers. Mrs. Louis Lippold, president; Mrs. Richard Shireman, vice-president; Mrs. William Kellef, secretary; Mrs. William Logsdon, treasurer; and Mrs. Leo Leisure, coach.

Jane McMullen served as toastmaster. The tribute to Father Irenaeus was given by Miss Lippold; to the mothers, by Sara Troxell; and to the coach by Marjory Reinhard. A talk on sportsmanship was given by Marjorie Kellef.

The school colors of yellow and white were predominated in the spring flowers which centered the table.

Maine Democrats May Back Roosevelt

By WILLIAM C. LANGZETTELL LEWISTON, Me., March 23 (P)—A resolution instructing Maine's delegation to the national Democratic convention to support renomination of President Roosevelt, if he seeks a fourth term, will go before the state convention tomorrow.

That word came from National Committeeman F. Harold Dubord of Waterville as delegates to the state meeting heard their new national chairman, Robert E. Hannegan, predict the Democrats would win in November "because the world requires it and destiny wills it."

If the resolution is carried—and experienced observers foresaw little if any opposition—the Democrats would in effect repeat their action of four years ago. Maine has ten votes in the national convention.

Hannegan, made no reference to a fourth term in his speech prepared for tonight's pre-convention rally.

What does Mrs. Harclerode think about it all? There's no doubt but what she's proud of her husband and son both being in service and she "was very glad to learn that they got together," but she says now she is a "little downhearted," because probably they will be separated.

Served Under Cochrane

It was Mrs. Harclerode, too, who pointed out that the commander of her husband's regiment was Lieut. Mickey Cochrane, the former major league manager and ballplayer, and that the commander of her son's regiment was Com. Eddie Peabody, world-famous banjo player.

But it remained for Donald to add that "all we've got now that could get in service are two dogs and a cat and they don't stand much of a chance. One dog," he said, "is too old, the other one's too short and the cat's too lazy."

White House Silent On Soldier Vote Bill

WASHINGTON, March 23 (P)—The White House was silent tonight as to whether the results of President Roosevelt's canvass of governors point toward a veto of the service voting bill.

Mr. Roosevelt was studying the measure and the replies of the governors to his query whether their states will authorize use of federal ballots. He has until the last day of the month to veto the bill, sign it or let it become law without his signature.

The governors' poll was completed today when Governor Olin D. Johnson advised that South Carolina plans no action to validate the federal ballots.

Taking the Weather Out of Weather

Accurate Forecasting May Forecasting May Be
Be around the Postwar
Corner

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Features Writer

WASHINGTON — The war is bringing a tremendous advance in the weatherman's knowledge of what makes weather fair and foul. This new knowledge — a rigidly guarded military secret for the duration — not only is helping win the war but promises greater accuracy in longer-range forecasts as well as in the familiar weather predictions for twelve to twenty-four hours.

I asked Dr. F. W. Reichelderfer, director of the United States weather bureau, about the outlook for longer-range forecasting.

"We are not yet able to say exactly where the new information will lead, but it is quite possible we will find weather controls indicating whether a season will be warmer, colder, wetter or drier than usual," he said.

Begin Upper Air Charts

"We are just beginning to chart upper air conditions, which play so important a part in making the weather we get. Before the war our reports were almost entirely from land regions. The upper air conditions above the oceans which constitute four-fifths of the globe were a mystery to meteorologists.

"Since Pearl Harbor, we have acquired more upper air information than we could have obtained in fifteen to twenty peaceful years."

It is being gathered by thousands of trained weather observers with our armed forces in all of the continents and on the seven seas. It already is being used in long-range forecasting experiments as well as in planning battle operations in the air, on land and water.

Military Secret

It's being kept secret because of its military value to the Germans and Japanese. The Nazis particularly would like advance knowledge of weather traveling toward Great Britain, the invasion coast and Germany. It's a short jump weatherwise from Greenland to Fortress Europe and from Attoe to Oakland, Calif. Even the direction of the wind in the upper atmosphere can have a hand in the weather Detroit is going to get.

If weathermen could regularly obtain complete patterns of atmospheric conditions in the northern hemisphere and make precise "synoptic charts" of air movements they might be able to say in March what kind of weather was in store for Massachusetts, Ohio, or Montana in May or June. A prognostic chart foretells the movements of immense masses of cold and warm air which are basically responsible for weather changes.

Stratosphere Transmitters

To get the facts for upper air maps and prognostic charts, Army and Navy weather observers all over the world are using radiosondes. The radiosonde is a combination weather measuring instrument and lightweight automatic radio sending set, carried 50,000 feet or more aloft by a small gas-filled balloon. It transmits signals which give the air pressure, temperature and humidity.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and over-worked, however, people have to get up at night. Frequent and scanty passages with smearing and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with the kidneys. Doctors suggest that the condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When the condition of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it is often also manifested by rheumatism, pain, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to end the 15 miles of kidney tubes that run through your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Helen Bosley Dies

Mrs. Helen Jane Bosley, 57, wife of Perry O. Bosley, Newport, Vermont, died suddenly of a heart attack at her home Saturday, March 18.

Mrs. Bosley was a daughter of Daniel L. and Elizabeth Conway, of Oakland, and was born here on April 17, 1886. On June 6, 1906 she married Mr. Bosley. The couple moved from Oakland in 1907.

Mrs. Bosley is survived by her parents, her husband, two children, Louise C. Bosley and George Quentin Bosley, both of Washington, D. C.; two sisters, Mrs. Nettie Duffy, of Newport; Mrs. Richard H. Thrasher, Washington, and two brothers, Harold Conway, Hollywood, Calif., and Glenn Conway, Newport.

Funeral services were conducted at Newport and the remains were brought to Oakland this morning. The body is now at the Borden Funeral Home. A brief service at the grave in Oakland cemetery will be conducted tomorrow with Rev. Minor Sprague, pastor of the Methodist church here, officiating.

Joel Gney Dies

Joel Gney, 89, who had been critically ill for several weeks at his home near Red House, died yesterday evening about 9:15 o'clock. Mr. Gney spent most of his life in this county and was a stone mason and farmer.

Surviving are his widow, three sons, Jesse Gney, Elgin, W. Va.; Ray Gney, Pleasant Valley; Dewey Gney, at home; two daughters, Mrs. Laura Roth, Cairo, W. Va.; and Mrs. Ella Hardesty, Washington, D. C.; also by two brothers, John S. Gney, Oakland; and David Gney, Gney church.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday from the Red House Lutheran church. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Paw Paw Soldier Is Home on Leave

By MRS. J. C. SNYDER

PAW PAW, W. Va., March 23—Corp. Edward Shoemaker, is home on a twenty-day leave from Hawaii. He was stationed in Hawaii at the time the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. He was later sent to the Marshall Island where he actively participated in the fighting there and then returned to Hawaii.

P.T.A. Holds Meeting

An old-fashioned spelling bee will be held by the Paw Paw P.T. A., April 17, at which time officers will be installed for the ensuing year.

Coney Odd Fellows Will Hold Dance

By MARIE MEERBACH

LONACONING, March 23—A round and square dance will be held at the International Order of Odd Fellows hall, Front street Friday night.

Dancing will be to the music of Lonaconing's "Bomb Shells." Proceeds will go to the Red Cross.

Funeral Arranged

The body of James Robertson is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Robertson, Dudley street. The funeral will be held Sunday in the Assembly of Gods church.

James McKinnon Dies

Word was received here this evening of the death of James McKinnon, a former resident of Lonaconing. He died today at Winchester and will be buried at Westernport Saturday afternoon.

He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKinnon, who formerly lived on Douglas avenue here and is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Flora Martin and Mrs. Margaret Wilkes, both of Akron, O.

Soldier Is Hurt

Staff Sgt. Kenneth Nine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Nine, Watercliffe, is a patient in an Elkins hospital. He was injured while in field training. His address is: S-Sgt. Kenneth Nine, A. S. N. 6947342, Company E, 320 Infantry, A. P. O. No. 35, Camp Butler, N. C.

Sowers Calls Meeting

Lowell M. Sowers, chairman of the Red Cross War Fund drive in Lonaconing, today, issued the following statement:

"The Red Cross War Fund drive for Lonaconing and Pekin is scheduled to begin March 27. Our quota—the largest in history—requires every solicitor of last year and many volunteers this year to complete the campaign. The last meeting before the drive will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Firemen's hall, Douglas avenue. Your presence is urgently requested to assist in this worthy cause."

Personals

Mrs. Nina Rowan, Railroad street, has received word from her son, Pfc. James J. Rowan, that he has arrived safely in England.

School Completes Red Cross Drive

Kempton Pupils End Campaign with Perfect Participation Record

By LENA WALKER

KEMPTON, March 23—The Kempton graded school completed its Red Cross War Fund drive today with 100 per cent participation. With an enrollment of 104 pupils, a check was mailed to the county chairman for $21.58, an average of $21 per child.

Beginning April 3 and continuing through June, elementary school will begin at 9 a. m. instead of 9:30 a. m., which has been the schedule since December 1, according to orders issued by the county board of education.

Due to the distance from the Garrett county salvage center, Kempton has joined Tucker county in the drive on fats, paper and tin. Three hundred and eight pounds of tin was sent to the Thomas center today and will be delivered with their scrap to Piedmont Saturday. Several hundred pounds of paper are in readiness for delivery April 1.

Mrs. Ethel Fox, superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church, announced that Sunday school will begin 1 p. m. each Sunday followed by church services at 2:30 p. m.

Personals

Pic. and Mrs. Elmer Tasker, Indiantown Gap, Pa., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cassell Tasker.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Metheny, Friendsville, Md., are guests of Arlie Metheny and family.

Parker Dewitt and family, Friendsville, are visiting Clarence Frantz.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lewis, returning a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lewis. They were intent to rape.

called here by the serious illness of the latter's father, David Knott. Annie Haberjack, Pittsburgh, is the guest of relatives here.

Soldier Jailed

TOWSON, Md., March 23—Pvt. William Edward Brown, formerly stationed at Fort George G. Meade, was sentenced to three years in the Maryland penitentiary today for his conviction in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Knott, returned to Akron, O., Sunday, following a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lewis. They were intent to rape.

Light Docket Is Completed At Oakland

Juvenile Delinquency Occupies Much of Attention of Judges

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, March 23—Juvenile delinquency occupied much of the attention of the judges at the March term of court which concluded yesterday afternoon after being in session only three days.

The docket was considered one of the lightest in a number of years, Neil C. Fraley, state's attorney, said. Only eight cases were brought before the judges, with only two traversers asking for trial before the court. The petit jurors who reported for duty Monday morning were dismissed by early afternoon.

Owen Fraze had two indictments against him, both for carnal knowledge, and Eugene Johnson also had two indictments against him, one for carnal knowledge and one for statutory rape. They entered pleas of guilty and the court placed them under parole for a period of three years, upon condition that they be of good behavior, and abstain from the use of intoxicating drinks during that time.

Other cases on the docket disposed of included the following:

Joseph Perry Vindex, charged with statutory rape. Tried before the court, verdict, not guilty.

George Butts, Vindex, charged with assault and battery, tried before the court, verdict guilty. Ordered to pay $5 and costs.

Neal Sims, charged with assault with intent to murder. He entered a plea of guilty to common assault. Paroled by the court for one year upon condition that he be of good behavior and abstain from the use of intoxicating drinks.

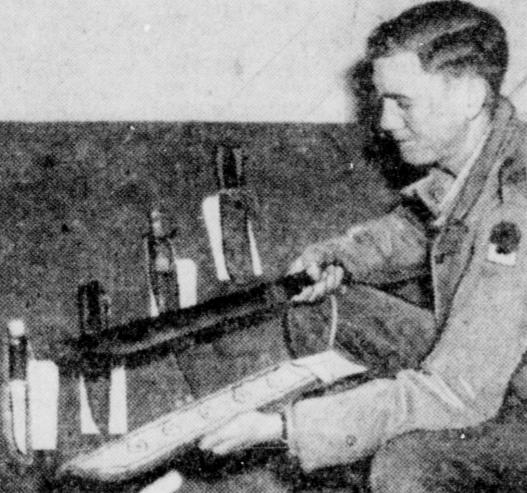

Jasper H. Ringer, Jr., 17, charged with larceny, entered pleas of guilty in three different instances. He was charged with theft of clothes, jewelry, etc., from the farm home of Daniel Spiker, and for a theft of money and a watch from the home of Shirley Wright, of near town. Most of the articles were recovered, according to Fraley. Ringer was placed on parole at the September term of court last year for entering the house of

Prisoner Gets Extra Time at Own Request

PHILADELPHIA, March 23 (AP)—

Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick granted Louis Zavadoff's request to make his sentence thirty-two days instead of thirty days for violating onion price ceilings.

Short term federal prisoners go to Zavadoff said he heard the accommodations were better in the latter prison.

Theaters

Film Is Fantasy, Fact and Fiction

"All Baba and the Forty Thieves," Producer Paul Mavrides' Universal Technicolor feature now at the Liberty theater, which co-stars Maria Montez, Jon Hall and Turhan Bey, is a mélange of "fiction, fantasy and fact," in the words of Edmund L. Hartman, who wrote the original screen play.

"It is fiction in that we have taken liberties with the character of Ali Baba, and written a new tale about him—one designed purely as entertainment," explained Hartman.

"It is fantasy in its treatment of 'Open Sesame' and the forty sacks, which, you remember, were used to conceal the thieves. They are the only incidents or 'props' that we have borrowed from the Arabian Nights tale—and we've taken poetic license, if I may call it that, with them."

Good Neighbors Film Comes to Maryland

Benedict Bogaerts' "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," hit production, now playing at the Maryland theater through United Artists release is one of the few pictures ever made about South America which can really boast a full-bladed South American in a colorful role.

In this case our neighbor from the south is Teresita Arias, eighteen year old daughter of Abdiel Jose Arias, Consul General of the Republic of Panama. She is a member of the Antonio Triana Dancers and plays the role of a Spanish Gypsy in the film.

Roy Rogers Film Opens at Garden

Opening today the Garden theater is Roy Rogers in "Jesse James at Bay," an exciting Western picture. George Gabby Hayes is included in the cast.

The co-feature at the Garden today is another in the popular Falcon series, "The Falcon in Danger."

Joan Berry Testifies She Went To New York as Chaplin's Guest

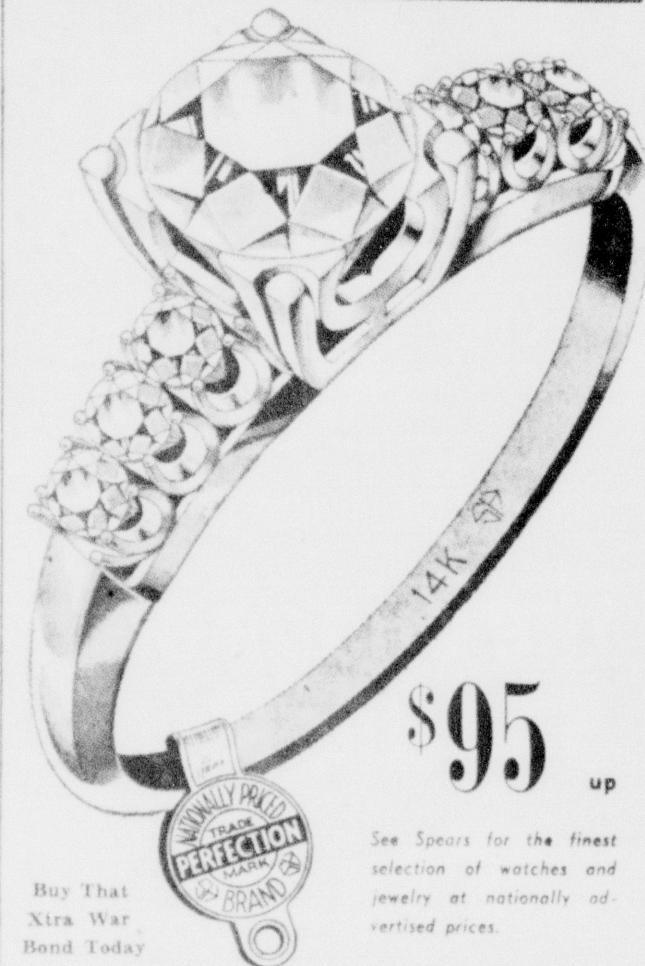

(Continued from Page 1) She said she then moved to the Pierre hotel in New York city. She tried to remember some questions asked.

Grilled by Giesler As the prosecution's star witness, the 24-year-old unwed mother was cross-examined rigorously by Chaplin's lawyer, Jerry Giesler.

Carr said she stayed from Oct. 8 to 10, 1942, in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York, and Giesler wanted to know who paid the bill when she checked out.

Rust-haired United States Attorney Charles H. Carr objected that the question was immaterial, but Miss Berry was permitted to testify that she didn't pay the bill and she sat down in the witness chair that Chaplin didn't either, although, and in response to a blunt question she added, he had said he would. Who paid it wasn't explained.

intercourse with Chaplin during June of 1941.

"Did you also have sexual intercourse with the defendant during July and August?" Carr asked.

"Yes," Miss Berry said, almost inaudibly, as she looked down at her hands tightly clenched in her lap.

Met Charlie in 1941

Answering preliminary questions by the government counsel, she said she met the gray-haired Chaplin in May, 1941, introduced by Thomas Wells Durant. It was only a few days afterward, she said, led by Carr's questioning, that she saw him again at Durant's home.

She said she left New York the night of Oct. 29.

"You were accompanied to the train by the same man who arranged your room at the Pierre, weren't you?" Giesler asked, but another objection was upheld.

Miss Berry was tremulous and seemingly on the verge of tears as she didn't pay the bill and she sat down in the witness chair that Chaplin didn't either, although, and in response to a blunt question she added, he had said he would. Who paid it wasn't explained.

"A Mr. Durant and another gentleman."

"What was your conversation with Mr. Chaplin in the night club?"

"He said: 'How did you like my speech?' I told him: 'Very good,' he said: 'I was under the impression you were to meet me later on after the speech.' I said: 'I didn't know that.' He said: 'Can we meet later in the evening?' I said: 'Yes.'"

After a night club tour the three of them went to the Waldorf-Astoria.

Talked in Apartment

"Mr. Chaplin said there were some things he wanted to talk over," Miss Berry said. Her voice was so low as to be scarcely audible to the press section.

She, Chaplin and Durant then went to the actor's apartment, after which Durant went to another room.

Questioned by Carr as to what happened then, Miss Berry appeared close to collapse.

"I can't say it! I can't say it," she answered, her face writhing.

Finally she did say it, however, and Chaplin's words, she testified, were: "Will you go into the bedroom with me?"

Under questioning, she said she went and that she and Chaplin had sexual intercourse. She left about 3 a.m., she asserted, going in a cab to her own quarters in the Pierre hotel.

Later, she said Chaplin told her: "Joan, I'll give you $300, enough for a ticket back to California.

"How much did he give you?"

Paid $300 in Cash

"$300 in $100 bills. I came back to California the latter part of 1942 and went to the Beverly Hills hotel."

"By the way, were you married during this time to the defendant, Mr. Chaplin?"

"No, I wasn't," Miss Berry replied, looking at her lap.

She said she saw Chaplin on Dec. 13 at his home.

"Did you have sexual intercourse with the defendant Chaplin at that time?"

"Yes."

"When did you next see him?"

"About Dec. 19 or 21 at his home."

"State whether or not on that occasion you had sexual intercourse with the defendant Chaplin."

"I did."

"Do you recall a gun episode?"

"Yes, on Dec. 19 or 21, 1942."

"Did you have the gun?"

"Yes, I purchased it, and took it to Mr. Chaplin's residence."

"Did you threaten to shoot the defendant?"

"No."

"All night. The early part I was in Mr. Chaplin's room and later in another room."

"How did you get in?"

I broke a window. I first saw Mr. Chaplin up in his room, I heard him talking affectionately to some one."

This last sentence was stricken from the record by Judge O'Connor.

Miss Berry continued: "Mr. Chaplin was talking on the telephone about Mr. Pagler (not identified) and said: 'He's an absolute fool and doesn't know what he's talking about!'

"Regarding the gun, were you going to kill yourself?"

"No, I was trembling. I sat down on the bed. He said:

"Don't be a fool and tried to get the gun." I said: 'No Charles, I'm going to keep it.' I told him I was going to kill myself."

"How long were you in the room?"

"Until about 3 a.m."

"Did you have sexual intercourse with Mr. Chaplin?"

"I did."

"Where was the gun during that relationship?"

"On a table."

She said she slept until morning in another room and left the house about 12 or 1 o'clock.

Then, she said, Chaplin told her: "Joan, I'm going to try to rehabilitate you. If you are willing to live on $25 a week and live at the studio club instead of the hotel, I will see that you receive $25 a week on condition that you don't bother me."

GIESLER TAKES WITNESS

Carr then turned Miss Berry over to the defense attorney, Jerry Giesler, for cross-examination. Giesler in a gentle tone with frequent apologies for the nature of his questions, led her over the circumstances surrounding her introduction to Chaplin.

"You met Chaplin in May, 1941?"

"Through Mr. Durant you say?" Giesler asked.

She said she had.

"You had just returned from Mexico City and had a letter of introduction from A. C. Blumenthal, did you not?" Giesler asked.

She said she had such a letter.

"It developed during the cross-examination that Miss Berry had made two trips to Mexico, one from New York city, and that was a point that Giesler emphasized.

Miss Berry was vague about the dates of the two trips, but it was established that on the latest one she returned to Hollywood in 1941.

Giesler asked how soon after the meeting with Chaplin the alleged intimacies ensued.

She said she thought it was about two weeks.

"Did you consent voluntarily?" Giesler asked.

"Yes," said Joan, in almost inaudible tone.

Giesler then asked her bluntly if she had had previous sex experiences, and the question brought prosecutor Carr to his feet with a bound. His objection that the question had no bearing on the case was sustained.

John McNabb Wins Oratorical Contest At Ridgeley

John McNabb of Paw Paw, W. Va., was the winner of West Virginia District No. 10, American Legion oratorical contest held last evening in Ridgeley High school. He used his oration, "The Privileges and Responsibilities of an American Citizen," on the Constitution of the United States. The talk of an historical nature outlined its founding and emphasized the duties of the citizen.

Besides the winner other contestants included Richard Swick, of Ridgeley high school; Glenn Widmer, Berkeley Springs high school; and Ruth Moreland, Capon Bridge. Besides credit for the oration, contestants were also required to give an extemporaneous talk of from four to six minutes on whichever of the twenty-two amendments to the constitution which they drew. McNabb drew the fourteenth, making the negro a citizen.

The judges were Miss Pearl Eader, Miss Olive Simpson and Mrs. A. L. Rogers, all of Allegany high school. The winner will now compete in the state contest to be held in Charleston, March 30. The regional and final contests will be determined by the number of contestants in the states.

Following the program the Parent-Teacher associations met and the high school association elected Mrs. Carol Walker, Mayor P. K. Morgan and Mrs. Daisy Blackburn a nominating committee. The election of officers will be held at the April meeting and installation at the May meeting.

Kritters Are Scrap-Happy

AP FEATURES

Despite war scarcities it's possible to start a building boom right in your own home, according to Reginald S. Leister of Toledo. Leister takes old scraps—empty spools, lollipop sticks, buttons, beads, feathers, and other common household articles—and turns them into funny designs which he calls Kritters and which he says can be used as gifts, ornaments and party decorations.

BATHER—Take a double-jointed peanut, glue on rope strands for hair, put in pins for eyes and circle them with crayon, add sticks for arms and modeling clay for nose and hands. Sit the Kritter in grapefruit shell.

BUILDER—Leister uses some old feathers, matchsticks, a piece of cork and some glue to make a bird Kritter.

Pirates Stay Indoors

MUNCIE, Ind., March 23 (AP)—Rip Sowell's famed "bopper ball" remained under cover again today when a soggy diamond once more forced the Pittsburgh Pirates to forsake McCullough park for the gymnasium.

That bopper has turned out to be one of my best friends, drawled the chief of the Buccos' hurling corps, "and I'm not going to expose it to these March Zephyrs."

An all-night rain mussed up the ball grounds. Manager Frank Frisch trotted his trainees to the gym and put them through two hours of drills.

Movies Train
New Farm Hands

WASHINGTON (AP) — New 16 mm sound films on sheep shearing are being released by the United States Office of Education for visual training of new farm hands. More than 12,000,000 workers are needed this year on the nation's farms. The films show how to handle sheep for shearing and demonstrate the relative position of shearer and sheep during each operation. Special attention is given the difficult function of rolling and tying fleeces.

Consumer Credit Controls Relaxed

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board relaxed slightly some of its consumer credit controls today, removing present down-payment requirements on purchases of $10 or less and ruling that charge accounts up to that amount are not to be considered in default.

Previously down payments were required on instalment sales of more than $6, and the default limit was transfer of fifty destroyers to Great Britain, more and more aid to Britain, the candidate for the nomination this year told a luncheon audience.

Inspectors Report
Hampshire No. 9
mine near Keyser

Changes Suggested for Protection of Life and Property

main changes to increase protection for life and property have been suggested by Bureau of Mines inspectors for the Hampshire No. 9 mine near Keyser, W. Va. The original inspection of the 300-ton-a-day mine in March work has been abandoned in areas then visited, but certain sub-standard conditions observed previously are evident in the new development work, according to Federal Inspectors W. D. Walker, Jr. and J. C. Davis, in recommending better ventilating facilities, improved timbering and safe blasting practices.

Employs Ninety-nine Workers

During the inspection, the bureau inspectors reported, two entries were being driven to the surface and the company planned to relocate the main ventilating fan at one of these entries. Certain safeguards for the installation were proposed by the inspectors, who commended the ninety-nine workers and officials for removing portable underground blower fans, making fire runs after blasting out coal cuttings before coal is blasted, erecting a new lamp house, safer transportation of explosives, removal of tools and miners from the explosive-storage magazine, employment of a mining engineer, safer location of the telephone and underground wires, and an above-the-average coal output per lost-time accident.

The mine had one fatality and sixteen other lost-time accidents in 1942, according to company records, which showed only seven lost-time accidents for 1943. Production per injury was reported to be 13,857 tons of coal.

Recommendations Listed

Other recommendations concerned adequate fire protection, safeguards and better housekeeping in the tipple and surface buildings, effective control of coal dust, better electrical installations, effective mine-car blocks, adequate haulage clearance, illumination, and shelter holes; prohibition of smoking, monthly tests for explosive gas, first-aid and mine-rescue training, and an all-around safety program.

WLB Plans To Keep Little Steel Formula

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—The War Labor Board intends to adhere firmly to the "little steel formula," its chairman assured Congress today, unless the members become convinced it causes injustice to workers. "I'm going to say so."

WLB Chief William H. Davis told the Senate Banking committee emphatically, however, that this measuring rod for allowable wage increases would have to be discarded if Congress abolishes consumer food subsidies.

"We couldn't hold present wage scales," he said.

The committee is considering extension of the price and wage stabilization act, now due to expire June 30. Foes of subsidies have talked of writing a ban on them into the measure.

The little steel formula is under attack by labor unions. Originated by the board it has been incorporated into an executive order by President Roosevelt and the board has no authority to change it. The board could, however, recommend a change and Davis told the Senate committee that if he becomes convinced the formula causes injustice to workers, "I'm going to say so."

Twenty-four hundred laborers will be imported from Mexico and Puerto Rico by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company for maintenance work Chief Engineer C. G. Haverson said today.

The railroad will bring 750 workers into the United States from Mexico within a few days, Haverson reported. Nine hundred Puerto Ricans and 750 more Mexicans will be transported later.

The War Manpower commission has arranged for the importation of foreign labor in accord with a War Food Administration and Department of Agriculture plan to ease the farm labor shortage.

Passenger traffic on American railroads was almost four times as great in 1943 as in 1939.

BALTIMORE, March 23 (AP)—Twenty-four hundred laborers will be imported from Mexico and Puerto Rico by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company for maintenance work Chief Engineer C. G. Haverson said today.

The railroad will bring 750 workers into the United States from Mexico within a few days, Haverson reported. Nine hundred Puerto Ricans and 750 more Mexicans will be transported later.

The War Manpower commission has arranged for the importation of foreign labor in accord with a War Food Administration and Department of Agriculture plan to ease the farm labor shortage.

The first shipment of foreign help will be distributed on the Newark, Toledo, Indiana and St. Louis divisions, where it is needed most, Haverson reported.

LaSalle Wallops St. Peter's Five By 39-23 Score

Will Meet De LaSalle of Newport, R. I., in Semifinals Tonight

NEWPORT, R. I., March 23—(Special to the NEWS)—LaSalle high school's basketball team of Cumberland, Md., pulled a stunning upset in a first round game of the Eastern States Catholic Interscholastic invitation tournament here tonight by walloping a highly-favored St. Peter's high of New Brunswick, N. J., 39 to 23 to advance to the semi-finals.

St. Peter's was first to score making four points in the first quarter before LaSalle scored, however, once the Cumberlanders started rolling there was no stopping them and they quickly ran up eleven points while holding St. Peter's scoreless giving LaSalle a 11-to-4 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Play Fine Defensive Game

LaSalle continued its fine play in the second quarter making fourteen points while holding St. Peter's to six. The third quarter was rather listless with LaSalle only scoring four points and St. Peter's three. In the final quarter each team scored ten points giving the fighting Maryland aggregation a well-earned sixteen point victory.

LaSalle's aggressive defensive play consistently tied up the St. Peter's team preventing the New Jersey club from getting many good shots.

The play of both teams was ragged in the third quarter but both showed improvement in the final period.

High scoring honors in the game went to R. O'Rourke, St. Peter's forward who had four field goals and five fouls for a total of thirteen points. T. Geatz and Ed Gunning, LaSalle forwards, were leading scorers for LaSalle, Geatz getting eleven and Gunning nine. Fahey had six, Shaffer five, Ingram and N. Geatz, three each and Carter two.

Meet De LaSalle Tonight

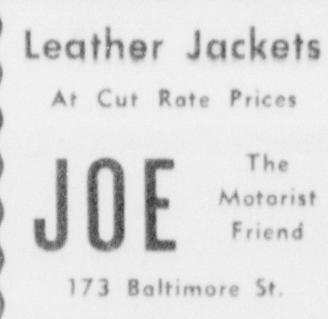

Tonight's victory will send LaSalle in the semi-finals Friday night at 9 o'clock against De LaSalle Academy of Newport, the defending champions and on whose floor the tournament is being played. De LaSalle advanced to the semi-finals tonight by defeating St. Regis high of New York City in a low scoring game 24 to 21.

In the other semi-final Central Catholic of Wheeling, W. Va., who disposed of Cardinal Hayes high school of New York City this afternoon 58 to 52, setting a new scoring record for the tournament, will meet Allentown, Pa., Central Catholic high school, who defeated Champlain high school of New York 52 to 48 in the other afternoon game.

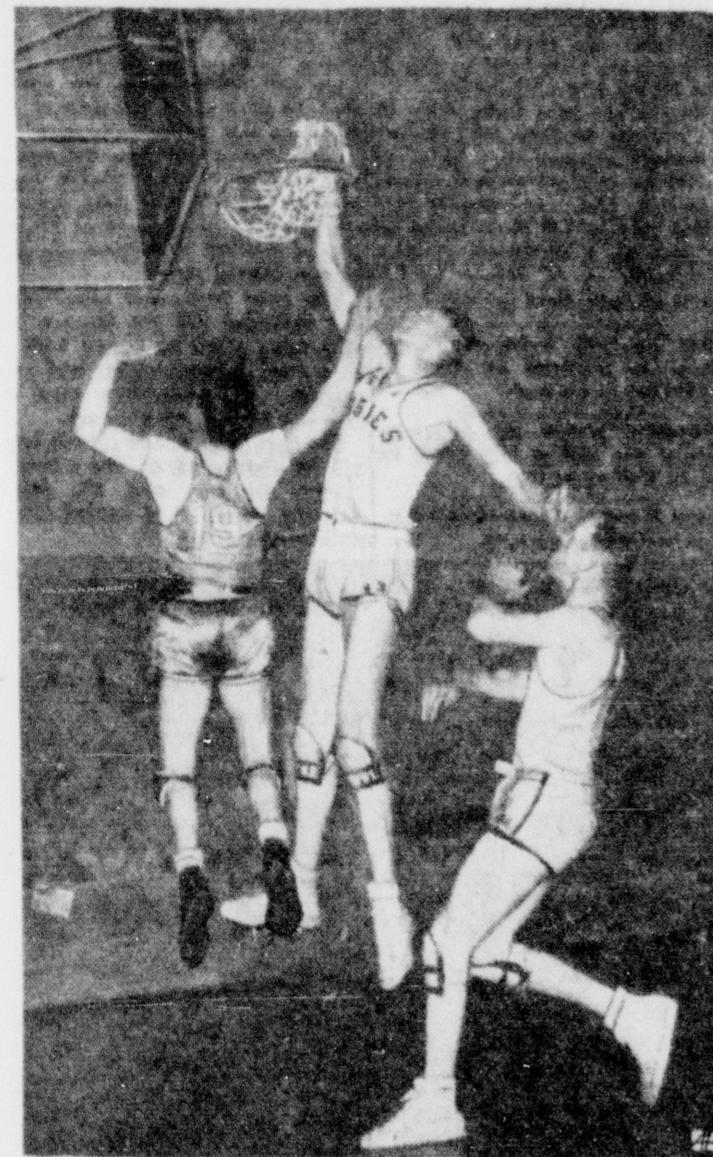

LaSalle will be the underdog tonight as De LaSalle has a strong team, is well balanced for tourna-

The Public Choice in Sport

An indignant non-combatant writes in criticising our offside guess that for a combination, baseball probably has the greatest number of players and spectators.

His selection was softball, where, as he says—"with proper facilities there would be over 30,000,000 softball players."

I doubt this very much, knowing also how many people play softball. Bowling can claim close to 20,000,000. But when you dig underneath the surface there are just four major sports that from the reading and the general interest angle have the greatest appeal.

These four are softball, baseball, boxing and racing.

From the writing and the reading angle, above the plowing angle, these are the four tops.

Hockey, a fast moving game, is only known to a small section of the country with no national following.

Basketball is almost strictly local in its appeal, even if thousands play it and millions watch it. It is almost an impossible game about which one can write with any national or general interest.

Track and field has only a limited reading or spectator interest.

Boxing is more of a home and family game, a magnificent sport that is largely unreadable.

The two basic reading and writing games of the country are baseball and football—or football and baseball. And just back of these we find boxing and racing.

Where You Get One Answer

In the last few months it has been a privilege to talk before many groups of service men who come from every part of the country—including those who have never left the country, those who have seen action—those who have been wounded.

Most of the sports writers have given what they had to give for this service.

The usual manner of procedure comes through questions from the army or navy audience you face.

In keeping an official box score I would say that over 90 percent of the queries thrown your way concern football, baseball, boxing and racing.

No one has yet asked me to answer any question about basketball, hockey, track and field or bowling. There have been a few scattered queries about golf and tennis.

This doesn't mean that there are not millions interested in basketball, bowling and track and field together.

There are just as many interested in hunting and fishing. Probably more. But the point is that most of the arguments are built around baseball, football and boxing, with racing getting a smaller share.

Fellows in the service, and this includes a strong cross section from some 10,000,000 between the ages of 18 and 38, make up a husky and alert representative group.

What do they want to know about?

What team will win the National League pennant—the American League pennant—the World Series?

What about the Dodgers, always sure fire? What about the Yankees?

Could Dempsey have whipped Joe Louis? How good is Beau Jack? Was this 1943 Notre Dame team better than Rockne's best? These are the types of questions they fire at you from those who have come along from the east and west, the north and south.

The Argument Sports

Baseball, football and boxing are the main argument sports, especially the first two.

They are also the easiest sports

Fitzsimmons, Shea May Form Oldest Battery in League Over Allie Stolz

Blue Jays Manager Will Soon Be 42 and Shea
Is Nearing 44

By JACK HAND

WILMINGTON, Del., March 23 (AP)—"Fitzsimmons pitching and Shea catching" may boom through Philadelphia's Shibe Park speakers some summer afternoon and when it does Phil fans will be watching the oldest battery in the major leagues.

Pat Freddy will be 42 in July and Shea, first name Mervin, will be 44 in September. It will be a re-creation of a 1938 Brooklyn combination.

General Manager Herb Pennock, who has charge of the club now that Owner Bob Carpenter is a private in the army, had the two oldsters placed on the active list along with Outfielder Chuck Klein so that the managers and coaches could provide a backlog of player talent just in case. They're getting ready and will be willing if it comes to that.

With fourteen pitchers hanging around the hotel duPont training quarters, Manager Fitzsimmons is hoping he'll be able to come up with enough starters so that Pitcher Fitzsimmons can devote his full time to master minding.

Fitz did not pitch after he took over the Phils in the late days of the William Cox regime but he worked in parts of nine for Brooklyn, winning three and losing four.

Taking care of his Brooklyn bowling alleys from 11 a. m. to 12 midnight seven days a week during the winter melted away some fifteen pounds from the Fitzsimmons chassis.

He reports he is lighter now than when he was putting together that 16-2 season for the Dodgers in 1940.

Except for a four-game stretch in Detroit in '39, Shea had not caught a game since 1938 until he took over the manager's job at Portland in the Pacific Coast League last year.

Out there he appeared in forty-one games and caught perhaps twenty complete contests.

"One of my catchers got hurt and the other just jumped the club," she explained. "so it came right down to me. So Old Merv put on the pad and mask and went to work."

There are four other receivers around camp, Ben Culp, Bob Finley, Bill Aniske and Andy Seminick, but two are definitely draft vulnerable

Ostermueller Fails To Sign Contract

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—Pitcher Fred Ostermueller signed his Brooklyn contract today and word was received that Les Webber, last season the club's chief relief artist, was en route to camp from his California home.

Frenchy Bordagray, here for an other contract conference with Branch Rickey, failed to reach an agreement.

The holdout outfielder returned to New York and Rickey left for the Springfield, Mo., training camp of the St. Paul American Association Club. Rickey is expected to purchase Drank Drews, rookie second baseman who is drilling with the Dodgers.

Danforth Denies His Pitching Was Illegal

Says Psychology and Good Fast Ball Helped Him Fool Batters

By JOHN F. CHANDLER

BALTIMORE, March 23 (AP)—Whatever made Dave Danforth's southpaw pitches so dippy-doodles still is a secret with the former American League star.

Danforth, one-time Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns hurler now a prosperous dentist, denies even today that there was anything queer about his saller heaves—"just psychology and a good fast ball. There was nothing to disclose.

In the minors and majors, Danforth—a Texan who attended Baylor—was a storm center because of his ability to whiff batters. His colorful career was climaxed at Philadelphia in 1923 when Umpire George Moriarity ordered him to the showers after a ninth-inning pitch that almost struck Wid茅ath's batter.

Fohl Backed Down

The Browns were leading 3-1 and swarmed about the plate," Danforth related. "Moriarity had charged at Detroit a year earlier that I was a 'cheat' and 'always would be.' Finally, Johnny Tabin, our rightfielder, grabbed the ball from Moriarity's pocket and all saw he was nothing wrong."

Moriarity, whose differences with Dave reached fever status, claimed Danforth was illegally "doctoring" the ball and the hurler was suspended ten days.

"Between games at Philadelphia, the St. Louis players signed a telegram to the late Ban Johnson, then league president, defending me, but it wasn't sent when Lee Fohl, our manager, wouldn't sign," said Danforth.

He claimed that Phil Ball, St. Louis owner, released Fohl seven days later "because Fohl had refused to back me up."

Berlin Radcliff Dies as Result Of Gas Fumes

Double Funeral Will Be Held Saturday for Mother and Son

Berlin Radcliff, 23, Springfield, W. Va., died in Allegany hospital at 8:45 o'clock last night, more than twenty-nine hours after he was found overcome by escaping gas fumes that already had taken the life of his mother, Mrs. Ida Ault, 61, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Landis, 15 Lyon street, Ridgeley, W. Va.

Little hope was held for Radcliff's recovery from the time he was admitted to the hospital at 6 p. m. Wednesday, but nurses and attaches worked valiantly for twenty-eight hours and forty-five minutes in an effort to revive him.

A resuscitator was used on him constantly from the time he was admitted until his death and one nurse said that "tank after tank" of oxygen and carbon dioxide were used in the effort to restore his breathing. Nurses on off hours volunteered their assistance, but attaches said Radcliff's condition when he was admitted to the hospital was such that recovery was practically beyond hope.

Sister at Bedside

His sister, Mrs. Allen Shaw, Cumberland, and her daughter were with Radcliff at his death.

A double funeral for Radcliff and his mother will be held Saturday in Stein's chapel with the Rev. Charles V. Elliott, pastor of the Assembly of God church, South Cumberland, officiating. Interment will be in Hillcrest burial park.

Mrs. Ault and her son had come to the Landis home Monday to assist with housecleaning and Wednesday were up and about the house at 8:30 a. m. The accident was discovered at 5 p. m. by Mr. and Mrs. Landis when they returned home from work.

Acting Coroner C. A. Jewell, Ridgeley, said the carbon monoxide fumes that killed Mrs. Ault and eventually took the life of her son escaped from a hot water heater in the kitchen.

No Inquest To Be Held

Following an investigation, Jewell termed the tragedy an accident and said that no inquest would be held. Time of the accident could not be definitely established but Jewell said evidence indicated both Mrs. Ault and her son were overcome early in the day.

Mrs. Ault had been dead for at least an hour when she was admitted to the hospital, a physician said, but Radcliff still held a very faint spark of life.

Gas filled both the kitchen and dining room of the Landis home. Jewell pointed out, adding that the fumes did not reach other rooms because all doors except the one connecting the kitchen and dining room, were closed. Windows in both the kitchen and dining room also were closed.

Mrs. Ault was found in a stooped position, her head against a cabinet, and her son was lying prone on the floor.

Three Youths Take Flying Cadet Tests

Tech. Sgt. Clarence Biehn, of the United States Army Recruiting office, announced that three youths took their mental examinations for flying cadets yesterday in the post office building here. They are:

Deacon R. Menges, 25, 11 Bailey street; William E. Nail, 17, Route No. 1 and Irvin W. Thomas, 17, Elk Garden, W. Va.

A bus has been chartered by the army recruiting office to take all those who have passed mental tests to Baltimore for their final physical examinations. It will leave the post office at 7 a. m. March 30.

Sgt. Biehn stressed the fact that all 17-year-old enlistees who will go for their physical must have three letters of recommendation, flying cadet application, consent forms and their birth certificate. They will be sworn in the same day and receive their silver wings and identification cards.

According to an announcement from the Flying Cadet board headquarters, any men accepted for the army air corps will definitely be in that branch of service and will not go into the infantry. This bulletin was made available to spike rumors to the contrary.

Inducted Men Honored At Dinner-Dance

Four employees of Sears, Roebuck and Company, scheduled to leave soon for military service, were guests of honor at a dinner-dance given by employees of the store last night at the All Ghan Shrine Country Club. The affair was a success with thirty-nine employees and guests of the organization attending.

Tables were covered with patriotic decorations and red, white and blue floral centerpieces. The candles were also red, white and blue.

Gifts were presented to those leaving and speeches were given by a few of the oldest store employees. Dancing and card-playing followed the Swiss-baked dinner.

Herbert Minister, division manager of service, and one of the men scheduled to be inducted was unable to attend. He is ill with pneumonia in Allegany hospital, but his condition is improved.

Easter Sunrise Service Speakers Are Announced

The Rev. W. A. Eisenberger and William A. Gunter Appear on Program

The Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has accepted an invitation to preach the sermon for the community-wide Easter sunrise service which will be held on Sunday, April 9, about 6:45 o'clock in the Fort Hill street.

William A. Gunter, Cumberland attorney, and president of the Allegany County Letter League, will deliver an address as a tribute to the men and women of the community in the armed services of the nation.

Everett R. Johnson, general secretary of the Central Y. M. C. A., will preside.

The program, sponsored by the Duke Men's Memorial Bible Class, will be of a non-sectarian nature and all residents of Allegany county and nearby Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania communities are invited to attend.

Music will be provided by the Fort Hill high school band under the direction of Miss Pearl Garberick and the Allegany high school mixed chorus, directed by Miss Dorothy Willson.

The committee on arrangements comprises Lloyd Rawlings, William J. Edwards, Edgar H. Bender and Everett R. Johnson.

Radio Operation Is Explained To Kiwanians

Members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday heard Dale Robertson, manager of Radio Station WTBO, discuss various phases of radio operation in wartime, and learned a number of interesting facts not generally known by the public concerning radio operation.

Robertson, formerly a member of Kiwanis clubs at Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Utica, N. Y., explained difficulties in obtaining trained personnel, new equipment and even replacement parts. He outlined many problems brought about by wartime restrictions, and said censorship requirements are particularly exacting.

Arrangement of programs were explained by Robertson who said that it is necessary for scripts to be prepared in advance, and that the station management endeavors to present well balanced programs with the thought of pleasing the greatest number of listeners. Talking parts of programs must be held to a certain percentage of music, he added with commercials being limited to three minutes on a fifteen-minute program.

Robertson declared that the radio industry has a voluntary censorship office in Washington where all script pertaining to news about the war must be submitted for approval. He added, that when a serviceman or woman is to deliver a talk on the radio, or be interviewed, that a copy of the script must be approved by the censorship office in Washington before it can be put on the air.
